In this age of over-involvement with dating apps and apps like Tinder or Bumble, it is worth reminding ourselves of the other meeting partners that are out there.No dating app wants users to get serious all of a sudden, but it does seem as if those who use them long term have all of a sudden changed their ways.To drive home that message.Setsu Setsu () is a town in western Gifu, Japan, located on the border with Nagano Prefecture. It is a sister city of Ichikawa and Toyooka. As of October 1, 2018, the town has an estimated population of 21,941, and a population density of 29.5 persons per km². The total area is 175.36 km². Geography Location Setsu is located in west-central Gifu Prefecture. The city consists of two areas: in the north is the broad Takase valley in north-central Gifu Prefecture, which lies between Mount Asama and Mount Zaō. The southern end of the town lies on the borders with Nagano and Aichi Prefecture, between Lake Chuzenji and Lake Suwa. The town is separated from Nagano Prefecture by Togakushi Pass. Lake Chuzenji, the town's namesake, is a popular local tourist destination. History The area around Setsu has been settled since prehistoric times, and Ainu (Izanagi) and Jōmon peoples made their homes in the area. In the early Meiji era, part of the area was within the borders of what was to become Gifu Prefecture. During the Edo period, Kikkawa Domain was a feudal domain of the Tokugawa Shogunate, and the town of Kikkawa was established on the eastern side of the village of Oda, which later evolved into present-day Kikkawa, Nagano. In the Meiji period, the area became part of the short-lived Nagano Prefecture. On April 1, 1878 the first train rolled through the area on the Nagoya - Iida Railway. Following World War II, the area was occupied by the United States after the surrender of Japan. The town of Kikkawa and the village of Oda in Kikkawa District were jointly founded on June 1, 1951 as "Setsu-Kikkawa" and "Sets
