I must have been about 3, and sure as hell wasn't going to sit on that cot for too long. After a quick walk outside and back in, I was cautiously handed over to Dad and told to hop on. I didn't get a chance to ride more than a few minutes before my dad had to jump in and drive us home, but I remember feeling the same instinctive urge to run around and play as I did the first time I drove a car. Asthma is a chronic disease characterized by variable and reversible airway obstruction associated with airway hyperresponsiveness and inflammation. There is a clear genetic contribution to the pathogenesis of asthma. Familial clustering of asthma, along with linkage studies, provides evidence of the role of genetic factors in asthma development. More recently, genome-wide linkage and association studies have contributed to the identification of a number of asthma susceptibility genes. However, most of the loci identified with linkage and association studies lie within non-coding regions of the genome. There remains a need to identify genetic markers that are coding in nature and are therefore more likely to be functionally relevant. Of particular interest is the coding sequence of the promoter region of the IL-4 gene, which may influence asthma susceptibility.Christmas food shopping lists don't have to be the stuff of heavy "just in time" or "just until the last minute" lists. They can be a lot of fun and also a great way of getting creative. We've seen some totally awesome Christmas dinner menu examples that look, and smell, great.
