The U.S. and Germany are locked in a devastating war on the European continent. As the Allies advance, they deliver the knockout blow to Nazi Germany with the capture of their first tank — the M4 Sherman. But there's a new enemy on the prowl in the form of the Tiger tank and the Panther. These Allied heavy tanks are not only the largest in service, but they're also one of the best and most feared in the tank arsenal. With a 9.2 tonne weight, a maximum speed of 45 mph and a firepower of up to 630-millimetre in the form of a 30-calibre M3 cannon, the Tiger makes short work of Allied troops. And to defend against these great tanks, America's allies have built the Paladin, a three-man tank able to dish out a destructive 200mm barrage of armour-piercing shells. But the Germans will never be defeated. They have the Panther: a beast of a tank that can batter even the most powerful Allied tank. The Allies have the technology, the manpower, and the enthusiasm to defeat the enemy. All that's needed is one decisive blow. The recent launch of Bitcoin SV – a new cryptocurrency built on the Bitcoin protocol – has caused debate as the virtual currency has dominated the headlines with the phrase ‘Satoshi’s Vision’ being used as its logo. While Bitcoin SV’s backers claim it represents a step forwards for the market, many followers and critics remain skeptical. “Everybody likes to look at a white cat.” – Chris Kline, Redditor The perception that the market is at its highest point in history is not new and has been proven wrong by a number of time and again. This viewpoint is shared by some who are skeptical about cryptocurrency’s adoption by the general public and the industry as a whole. If the market really is doing well, why are its prices constantly dropping? At the time of writing, the market cap of cryptocurrency is estimated to be around $159 billion. The total market cap of the crypto market, which comprises Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies, is an estimated $836 billion

Guardians of Greyrock is a co-op, card-driven, adventure experience set in a decaying forest. Gameplay focuses on cooperative exploration, crafting, survival, and skill-based combat. The game is under development by a team of four co-owners based out of Montreal. Game Characteristics:

Cooperative: The group is key to the gameplay. You'll work together to solve puzzles, construct tools and items, unlock new areas, collect resources, and fight creatures that threaten you and your friends!

Card-based: There is no inventory, and much of your equipment is represented by cards you create and collect during the game.

Survival: Characters are limited in the number of health and stamina points they have. The creatures of Greyrock hunt and kill you on sight, so you must be prepared to fight back!

Fantasy: Experience and interact with a variety of visually-styled fantasy creatures from Magic: The Gathering

Wonders: Challenge friends to a combat game, build and nurture magical item-creating "wonders", and explore mysterious new levels!

Gameplay Features: Invest in your equipment and prepare for a deeper exploration experience. Craft the best weapons, tools, and armor to aid you in your journey. Observe wildlife, begin crafting, and explore the world! Learn new skills by pressing forward, encountering new creatures, and deciphering the mysteries of the world. Fight and kill creatures! More than just a story-driven adventure game, there's a Cardfight game element. A good healer knows how to keep their enemies weak
