I use ipython notebooks a lot to write code, and I run my code from my terminal using ipython notebook -k myfile.ipynb. Is there a way to attach (or execute) this notebook to an R session? Something like > run -i myfile.ipynb I find myself on a couple occasions in a need to use R interactively, in such a case that'd be quite annoying to copy paste the needed code in the R console. So for the sake of speed I'd like to avoid it. A: You could do that with rmarkdown::render. From the help file: -bash help(rmarkdown::render) Rendering a RMD file as a standalone R script with R inline. library(rmarkdown) p CHICAGO -- Chicago police have stopped a chase on the South Side that began when a man tried to ram his car into another in the Cabrini-Green neighborhood. It happened in the 4600 block of South Wentworth Avenue. According to police, the suspect had a 6-year-old in the car, but the child was unharmed and was released into the custody of a relative. A 28-year-old man and 24-year-old woman were taken into custody at the scene for attempted murder and aggravated battery, respectively.
