More particularly, the invention relates to an improved molding cycle for molding a finish on the surface of an article by the transfer molding of an insert onto the article. Typically, an insert molding process is used to provide a finish on the surface of an article, such as a wheel cap for a vehicle, by applying an insert, such as a cover including a wheel rim, a wheel belt, or a wheel hub, onto the surface of the article. The article is placed within a mold and the mold is closed under a predetermined pressure. The mold is then moved to a heated area where the

I am trying to change the default height of the "stack pane" where each node in the tree view appear. Most of the time, the default height is so big that it actually is not viewable and that the nodes are cut off. I have my own c# code for generating the treeView in the xaml and my own themes but I can't find how to change the stackPane height. Basically I want to have something like the following sample, but with a smaller height for the stack pane. A: This tutorial should help you get started with a TreeView control. Basically, you can do something like this: TreeViewItem node = new TreeViewItem(); node.Header = "Long Header here"; node.Items.Add(new TreeViewItem() { Header = "Test 1" }); node.Items.Add(new TreeViewItem() { Header = "Test 2" }); treeView1.Items.Add(node); node = new TreeViewItem() { Header = "Long Header here" }; node.Items.Add(new TreeViewItem() { Header = "Test 1" }); node.Items.Add(new TreeViewItem() { Header = "Test 2" }); node.Items.Add(new TreeViewItem() { Header = "Long Header here" }); treeView1.Items.Add(node 0cc13bf012
