The present invention relates generally to oscillator circuits and more particularly to a method of reconfiguring a high frequency oscillator circuit to include a power-down mode. As is well known, oscillator circuits (commonly known as oscillators) are used in numerous electronic circuit applications to generate a periodic signal of a selected frequency. For example, in an electronic time-keeping device, such as a quartz crystal vibrator watch having a quartz crystal vibrator as a time-keeping oscillator, the periodic signals generated by the oscillator are frequently used to time the various functions of the watch. One problem associated with such watches is that the continuous use of the oscillator in a power-down mode causes the quartz crystal vibrator to "freeze" or otherwise fail to produce a periodic output signal as required. It is known that such periodic signals from the oscillator are used to energize an integrated circuit of the watch to keep the quartz crystal vibrator oscillating to indicate the correct time. Unfortunately, the constant application of power to the watch causes the integrated circuit to constantly and continuously energize the quartz crystal vibrator to compensate for the failure of the quartz crystal vibrator to continue to oscillate. Over time, this continuous operation of the watch's integrated circuit consumes all of the battery power available to the watch and the watch inevitably becomes inoperable. Thus, there is a need in the art for a method of enabling the oscillator circuit of a watch to function in a power-down mode.

Q: Why are all my questions closed? I've only been on Ask Ubuntu for about 24 hours, and I have about 7 questions that have all been closed as "off-topic". I am not sure what I am missing, so I have two questions: Why is this happening and is it just because I have not been here long enough? If it is because I have not been here long enough, can someone explain how I can get more rep?

A: The first thing to note is that the various question types are not all alike. Most of these closed questions are at least somewhat less than perfect, as evidenced by the fact that they are still open, and any fair objective analysis would find them on topic for this site.
