Google.Thomas Maguire (geologist) Thomas Maguire (19 August 1838 – 6 January 1914) was a Scottish mineralogist who discovered the pyromorphite mineral. He published the 1881 book on this mineral. Biography Maguire was born in Dundee, Scotland on 19 August 1838. He was educated at the High School of Dundee, then studied geology, chemistry and mineralogy

at the University of Edinburgh, where he graduated with a Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree with first class honours in 1862, and later a Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) degree in 1868. In 1864 Maguire began working as a mining geologist, with the Geological Survey of Scotland, and later became head of their sedimentary geology department. Thomas Maguire was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh in 1893. His proposers were John Horne, Alexander Buchan, John William Dawson and Hector Finlay. Maguire died on 6 January 1914 in Edinburgh. Work Maguire worked with a mentor at the Geological Survey of Scotland, Archibald Geikie. As a mineralogist, Maguire's work was on igneous rock, particularly on plutonic rocks. He discovered the pyromorphite mineral and published the first description of it in 1881. Publications Thomas Maguire's 1881 book on pyromorphite was the first published account of the mineral, containing detailed synonyms and chemical and physical information on this mineral. Family Maguire was the brother of Margaret Dawson Maguire, a physician and feminist. References External links Category:1838 births

One may enjoy his steak dry, sliced thin and served over buttered toast, but if one has a hankering for something a little, ahem, sweet, he might turn to the dessert menu, where, besides plenty of chocolatey delights, one can also find a whole lot of pastries. Grab a piece of the aforementioned buttered toast with your sweet tooth in tow, and enjoy! Foster's: $3.20 I recently had one of Foster's pies and it was excellent - buttery and sweet, and if you're in the mood for a dessert just to satisfy a sweet tooth, this is the one to go for. Joe's Donuts: $5.85 Joe's is the place to go for those hot-off-the-grill orders of fries, but if you want a more, well, baked treat instead, head on over to this local chain and choose from among their cakes, pies and other pastries. Hood River Bakery:
